

Katie Keech, LMFT, has over twenty years of clinical experience in community mental health and private practice in a range of settings. She was an assistant program director at Casa de la Vida, one of the first social rehabilitation residential clinics for Transitional Aged Youth (TAY). She was a program manager at East Bay Community Recovery Project - a forensic mental health program - and Stars Behavioral Health, where she led two programs overseeing TAY with serious mental health diagnoses. She worked as a volunteer coordinator for San Francisco Suicide Prevention, where she helped launch the Trevor Project (a hotline for LGBT youth) and led grief groups for people who'd lost loved ones to suicide. She currently serves as ISSTD's Board Secretary and has worked to found several Special Interest Groups within ISSTD such as the TAY SIG, the Transgender and Non Binary SIG as well as co-founding the Neurodiversity and Dissociation SIG with Katherine Reuben. Since 2021, Katie has worked full time in private practice. Katie continues to provide trainings on assessing and diagnosing dissociative disorders and TAY to CMH programs. She received the City of Berkeley Mental Health Division's Mental Health Achievement Award in 2021 for this work.
